1. Personnel Policies

With the exception of the minister(s) all employees of MVUUF are at-will employees (As defined by the laws of the state of Ohio).

All paid staff positions at MVUUF have job descriptions. These descriptions are subject to change in order to stay consistent with the changing needs of the Fellowship. All paid staff hired after July 1, 2013 except for temporary positions, cannot be members of MVUUF.

As stated in MVUUF Bylaw, Article VIII.B.6 (Hire/Fire Authority) and agreed to in the Minister's Letter of Agreement, the senior Minister, in consultation with the Board, and consistent with the mission and confines of the budget and Board-determined staff actions, may hire or terminate MVUUF employees.

All employees will be hired with an initial 90-day probationary period and will be evaluated near the end of that period.

1.1 Personnel Procedures

Article VIII, Section B of the Bylaws of the Miami Valley Unitarian Universalist Fellowship (MVUUF) make the Personnel Committee "responsible for staff salary recommendations, personnel counseling, and establishment and monitoring of staff contracts." In addition, the Personnel Committee will assist the Minister with setting up procedures for hiring and annual performance review processes. Those procedures are incorporated in the following MVUUF Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual (henceforth referred to as the Personnel Manual).

The personnel committee chair is appointed by the board. The personnel committee chair appoints additional MVUUF voting members to the committee. Other board members may serve on the Personnel Committee as needed. The personnel committee chair and all appointed members of the personnel committee are officials of MVUUF. The board vice president shall be an ex-officio member of the personnel committee, and may be appointed by the board as Personnel Committee Chair. The Personnel Committee Chair may delegate certain personnel tasks to appropriate designees. A designee may be the Office Administrator, a board member, another personnel committee member, and/or a temporary personnel consultant.

2 Job Descriptions

The Personnel Committee and its designees will be responsible for job descriptions. Current job descriptions are included as Appendix A. Job descriptions may be updated yearly by supervisor and employee in cooperation with the Program Council Representative and the Personnel Committee. Any revised job description must be submitted to the board for approval and if approved included in MVUUF Personnel Manual.

3 Hiring

Before the hiring/recruiting process begins, the job description and salary range will be reviewed and updated as necessary by the Personnel Committee. If an existing position is being refilled and the salary range remains the same, the Personnel Committee can approve. If a new position is opened or there is a major change in the description or salary range, the Board must approve. Compensation for any new position must be appropriated in the annual budget before any recruitment activity can commence.

The goal of the Fellowship is always to seek and hire the most qualified person for every position, to comply with federal and state employment laws, and to maintain employee wage equity in accordance with UUA salary guidelines.

3.1 Positions will be advertised in:

1. The Fellowship's Forum and on the bulletin board. Information will include minimal qualifications and names of Committee members to be contacted.
2. A local newspaper or special venues relevant to the position.

3.2 Screening the applicants

The Minister and at least two members of the Personnel Committee shall review all applications received and, using a grading system, identify the most qualified applicants with regard to how well they meet the posted requirements.

The Minister may delegate members of the Personnel Committee to conduct telephone interviews to narrow the group of qualified applicants to a limited number to be invited for onsite interviews. Copies of the applications of applicants who are being invited for interviews will be provided to those who will conduct the onsite interviews.

3.3 Interviews

The Office Administrator will contact all potential interviewees and schedule the interviews. If the position of Office Administrator is vacant, the Personnel Committee chair or designee will complete any personnel tasks.

The interview will be conducted by the Minister, Personnel Committee, and the direct supervisor for the position. Other relevant staff may be asked to take part as well.

Prior to any interview, the Chair of the Personnel Committee or designee, in collaboration with the Minister, will determine the standard interview questions that will be asked of all applicants by each Committee Member.

Interviewers may ask their own questions provided they fall within the laws of the State of Ohio.

To close the interview, the Minister, the Chair of the Personnel Committee or designee will tell the applicant when she or he can expect to receive feedback regarding the selection decision, and that an employment background check will be conducted. In certain cases, the Personnel Committee may elect to do retail credit and criminal investigations on finalists; if so, the candidate will be so advised. At this time, employer contact information for references will be obtained (or verified) as well as the applicant's consent for contacting former employers (Appendix B). Immediately following each interview, each interviewer will prepare a summary report noting her or his impression of the interviewee, and the "interviewing committee" will discuss the applicant and other applicants interviewed thus far.

3.4 Background Investigation

The Minister, the Chair of the Personnel Committee or designee will investigate the employment background of applicants who are finalists for the position. The most pertinent employment background information is normally the five years of employment history preceding the date of application. The most meaningful employment contacts are telephone calls to the immediate supervisors of an applicant. The Human Resource Department of an applicant's former employer will normally provide only the person's position at separation and the dates of her or his employment (for fear of legal reprisals for disqualifying information).

The employment reference investigation form (Appendix C) will be used.

The applicant will be advised in advance if the present employer will be contacted regarding employment information.

3.5 Final Employee Selection

The Minister has final authority to hire. After reference checks are completed and deemed satisfactory, the Minister, the Chair of the Personnel Committee or designee will telephone the applicant selected for employment with a verbal employment offer. Employment will be offered for a 90-day probationary period. The Minister, the Chair of the Personnel Committee, or designee will follow up with a typed offer letter, federal and state W4 forms, an I-9 form (found at www.uscis.gov/files/form/i-9.pdf), and applicable insurance forms. These forms should be returned to the Fellowship with a copy of the offer letter signed by the new employee. The employee will be given a copy of the MVUUF Personnel Manual.

The Minister, the Chair of the Personnel Committee, or designee will also notify all applicants who were not selected. (Do not attempt to explain to an applicant why she or he was not offered the position or rejected. Simply thank the applicant for applying.) Notification may be in the form of a letter or personal phone call. NOTE: Federal law requires that employment applications be retained for one year from the date of receipt. These materials will be kept in the locked personnel file cabinet.

3.5.1 Communication to Bookkeeper and Office Administrator

A Personnel Action Notice form (Appendix D) should be completed by the Office Administrator and given to the bookkeeper to enter the new employee into the Fellowship payroll and records system.

The Office Administrator will establish a personnel file folder where all employment and personnel-related forms are retained, including a copy of the Personnel Action Notice.

3.5.2 Communication with the Congregation

The Minister, the Chair of the Personnel Committee, or designee will announce the person selected to fill the opening to the Congregation at the next service.

The person selected to fill the opening will be announced in the next issue of the Forum, on the Bulletin Board, and on the e-mail news list.

3.5.3 Orientation and Training

Whenever possible, the employee's orientation will be conducted on her or his first day on the job. (See Appendix E - Employee Orientation Procedure and Employee Orientation Checklist.) The supervisor of the new employee will have primary responsibility for orientation and training, using the Position Description for the job, applicable insurance and other relevant information about the Fellowship.

The evaluation process will be explained to the employee during the orientation.

If the departing employee is available and would be an effective trainer, she or he should spend sufficient time training the new employee.

A suggested five-step training method:

1. Explain (using a current job description, the trainer explains job duties);
2. Demonstrate (trainee repeats her or his understanding of job tasks);
3. Try out (have employee perform job tasks);
4. Correct (trainer corrects any tasks not performed correctly).
5. Explain how this job relates to overall support of the Fellowship and its functions.

4 Time and Attendance

Time and attendance shall be recorded for all hourly employees. The Office Administrator will maintain all records. The Office Administrator submits this information to the payroll service provider (currently Horizon) in the form it requires. Salaries will be reviewed at the end of each fiscal year by the Chair of the Personnel Committee.

Salaries must be approved by the Personnel Committee and the Board in consultation with the Finance Committee, and the budget must be approved by the Congregation.

5 Benefits

Benefits will be offered on the basis of position status, i.e. whether an employee is “full time” “part time” or “partial part time” and on the basis of the organization’s ability to offer the benefit based on its resources and needs.

5.1 Definitions

Benefit: benefits include payroll-related insurance (FICA, Workers’ Comp, and Unemployment), optional insurance (Long Term Disability, LTD) and paid time off (vacation, sick and holiday)

Full time (FT) employee is one who works 36-40 hours/week

Part time (PT) employee is one who works 20-35 hours/week

Position status is established in the position description.

Currently three positions are eligible for benefits: Custodian (PT), Director of Religious Education (PT), and Office Administrator (PT).

No benefits, other than those which are payroll related, accrue to Partial Part Time positions.

Payroll related benefits are FICA, Workers Comp and Unemployment.

Employees planning vacation will request the time in writing in advance. The request will be submitted to the employee's immediate supervisor.

Vacation and sick time shall be tracked via the time reporting system.

See the Benefits Matrix table below for list of benefits and additional information.

Compensation management re: paid time off (vacation, sick, holiday): Employees may be paid for only the standard (average) number of hours per month unless they have the written consent (paper or email; cc: bookkeeper) of their supervisor(s) to charge more. This applies whether or not the month includes any paid time off. When paid time off applies, they are considered part of the standard number of hours per month.

¹Employees must complete one full year of employment before eligibility for pension contribution benefit begins.

5.3 Health Care Reimbursement Account Policy

MVUUF values the health and well-being of all staff, and makes every effort to support and encourage good health through prevention and early treatment – to the extent that the Fellowship is financially able. MVUUF offers the UUA health insurance plan to all eligible staff and encourages all staff to obtain health insurance with the funds MVUUF makes available. When the cost of insurance is not affordable with the funds available, or if health insurance is provided by another source, MVUUF will provide a health care reimbursement account. This account is not intended to be a substitute for health insurance, nor is it considered a guarantee of health care expenses that go beyond the funds available in this account.

All full-time and part-time, non-contractual employees, defined elsewhere in this policy manual, are eligible for the UUA health insurance plan or for a health care reimbursement account. The amount available for each employee shall be in the Fellowship's annual budget. Each employee's account will be credited at the end of each pay period and funds may not be spent until they are accrued unless specifically approved by the employee's supervisor and the treasurer. Funds not used in the MVUUF fiscal year will not carry over to the next year.

The account will reimburse the employee for the cost of health insurance premiums according to the benefits matrix, and/or out of pocket health care expenses. Health care expenses include: standard medical office visits, diagnostic tests, prescription drugs, vision and dental expenses. The account may be used to reimburse these expenses for the employee and their immediate family (spouse, domestic partner, or minor children). Funds may not be used for expenses that have been or will be reimbursed by a third party. These reimbursement accounts do not fall under the IRS description of business expenses and will be reported as taxable income.

If the employee selects the UUA health insurance plan, the budgeted amount available will be paid by MVUUF directly to the insurer. This benefit is not taxable.

For non-UUA health expenses, reimbursement will be provided to the employee only with receipts that reflect the name of the employee or family members, the service provided (in general terms) and the amount of the expense. Employees will attach health care receipts to a form for reimbursement and provide it to their supervisor for review. After the supervisor reviews and approves the request, the receipts will be locked in a confidential file separate from the personnel record, and maintained by the supervisor and/or the office administrator. As with all personnel issues, this information is confidential. A good faith effort will be made to maintain the employee's confidentiality, but confidentiality cannot be completely guaranteed.

The office administrator and each employee will monitor the balance of the account. The dollar amount budgeted per employee will not be exceeded.

6 Leave of Absence (Approved 2/18/10)

Leaves of absence are made available in a sincere attempt to recognize and meet the needs of paid staff. However, the granting of paid leave must also take into account the best interests of MVUUF, including but not limited to church calendar and financial situation. Negotiations will consider the availability of volunteers, the church budget, and the reasonable expectation of a prompt return to previous status. Leaves of absence for non-ordained staff are approved and administered by the Personnel Committee and the Board of Trustees.

6.1 Policy

Employees may request a leave of absence with the understanding that the employee intends to return to work for the Fellowship at the conclusion of the leave of absence.

A leave of absence for longer than six weeks precludes the Fellowship from assuring the employee of a return to the position held at the time the leave of absence began. However, should a leave of absence continue beyond a six week period, every effort will be made to find a position at the Fellowship for which the employee is qualified. An employee not returning to work the day following the conclusion of an approved leave of absence may be terminated from employment.

Only with Board approval may an employee be employed by another church, Fellowship, or organization while on leave of absence. Failure to secure approval will result in termination of employment.

6.2 Types of Leave of Absence

Paid

Medical and Family: An absence of up to six weeks as approved. Such leave may be authorized for a seriously ill employee (medical leave) or to care for a spouse, partner, child or parent who is seriously ill (family leave).

Parental: An absence of up to six weeks as approved. Such leave may be authorized for the birth, adoption, or guardianship of a child by the employee.

Bereavement: An absence of up to one week for the death of a spouse, partner, or child. An absence of up to three days for other family members.

Wages and Benefits

Employees seeking a paid leave of absence for any reason may receive 100% of their wage for the first two weeks of leave and no less than 60% for the remaining four weeks. Employees will continue to accrue benefits throughout the leave.

Full-time employees may negotiate a part-time schedule at full wage and benefits for up to six weeks. A physician must approve the reduced hours in the event of medical leave.

Unpaid

Personal: An absence of up to one month as approved.

Military: Absences of two weeks for the National Guard summer camp or for an extended period of time of National Guard or Reserve members in the event of a national emergency as declared by the President of the United States.

6.2.1 Procedure

In the event of a medical or family leave of absence, the employee is required to prove the supervisor with a written statement from the doctor as to the reason for the leave of absence request and a projected date for returning to work. In the event of parental leave of absence, the employee will provide a letter detailing the leave request.

A Personnel Change Notice form should be completed by the supervisor of the employee and given to the Personnel Committee for approval PRIOR to communicating approval of such leave to the employee.

It is the responsibility of the employee on leave to contact the supervisor in writing to request reinstatement of employment with the anticipated date of return to work. In the event of medical leave, the employee's doctor is required to provide the employee's supervisor with a written statement indicating a date when the employee may safely resume work.

7 Performance Management (Approved 12/07 by Personnel Committee)

For new employees, performance reviews will be conducted prior to the end of the initial 90 day probationary period. Thereafter, performance reviews for most MVUUF employees will be done annually, on or around the hire date anniversary.

The current or new approved job description will be the basis for employee reviews.

7.1 Developing Annual Staff Goals

Each staff member will develop annual goals based on the job description and the objectives of the Fellowship. (See Appendix F -Sample Job Performance Goals).

The Board will approve and/or negotiate changes to the Minister's goals.

The Minister and/or supervisor will meet individually with other staff persons to review the goals they have submitted.

7.2 Performance Evaluations

The performance review will be performed by the direct supervisor of the employee, with feedback gathered from committee members, congregation members, and program council representative. An evaluation process will be developed for each job description, using a format like the Performance Factors Evaluation System (Appendix G), or some other method approved by the Personnel Committee.

The performance review will cover three areas of performance: performance of area of responsibility outlined by job description; progress towards goals of the program that the employee works in, and progress towards personal /professional goals developed by the employee and the supervisor. These goals should be developed and communicated at least six months prior to the review. (See Appendix H - Conducting Effective Performance Evaluations).

For goals of the program, the employee working in that area will submit their evaluation both of the program as a whole and their understanding of their contribution towards these goals. The supervisor will gather feedback from program appropriate council representative, committee members and congregation members about the progress toward goals of the program and the employee's contribution and will share this feedback in a constructive manner during the review, using the employee's own evaluation as a valuable input to this overall evaluation.

The employee will also submit their own evaluation of their progress toward their personal and professional goals. The direct supervisor will provide an evaluation of the employee's progress toward these goals, using the employee's self-evaluation as input and feedback gathered from members.

During the performance review, new personal/professional goals will be developed. The goals for the program will be developed by the supervisor and employee.

The most advantageous way of providing evidence of how an employee performed would be with measureable results such as increased attendance. However, it is understood that most performance is a subjective matter that is perceived differently by different perspectives. It is understood that employee and supervisor may have differing views on performance and may need to ask a Personnel Committee member to help them sort through their differing views.

7.3 Job Performance Warning

If at any time after the probationary period but prior to the next scheduled performance evaluation, the supervisor determines that an employee's job performance is "Unsatisfactory" or "Marginal," the supervisor (in consultation with the Personnel Committee) will give the employee a formal written warning that will become a part of the employee's personnel file.

7.4 Discipline

If a complaint is filed concerning ordained or lay staff, the Personnel Committee will investigate the complaint. The Committee will counsel with the staff member, providing a written recommendation for future action. If warranted, the Committee will also place a written record of the incident and the Committee's actions in the staff member's personnel file. The complainant will be informed in writing of the Personnel Committee's action.

7.5 Employee Concerns

Every employee will be treated fairly in matters of pay, benefits, promotions, working conditions, and the resolution of employment-related concerns.

If an employee has a concern, she/he should discuss it with the immediate supervisor. If the matter is not resolved to the employee's satisfaction by the immediate supervisor, the employee has the right to speak with the Minister or meet confidentially with the Chair of the Personnel Committee.

Appendix A – Job Descriptions

Use of Job Descriptions

Job descriptions alone are insufficient to provide individuals with day to day direction in their positions or to express annual performance expectations. Interaction between employee and supervisor achieves those goals. Job descriptions provide a general indication of what is expected for the purpose of setting salaries and providing guidance for searches.

Job descriptions should express the expectations of the supervisory team. Position content and job descriptions can get out of alignment as time goes by. Job descriptions should be reviewed annually against position content and organizational need to ensure that the document is current and aligned with the needs of the organization.

Job descriptions should also be reviewed whenever a new incumbent is sought for a position. This should take place before any other phase of the search commences.

When job descriptions change significantly in scope and expectations, the changes are submitted to the Personnel Committee. The committee members review the changes with the supervisor and incumbent as needed and send the updated job description to the Board for approval. Minor changes may be made by the supervisor in concert with the incumbent and with the approval of the Personnel Committee.

Appendix H Conducting Effective Performance Evaluations

Step 1: Give the persons you supervise the performance factors or performance goals by which she or he will be evaluated at the time you adopt the performance evaluation process. It is also good practice to discuss these factors or goals during the orientation of a new employee.

Step 2: Tell the staff member when the evaluation will take place so that she or he can prepare for it. Select a place for the evaluation that is private, with no interruptions, but that is also informal (if practical, do not sit across a desk from your subordinate). The climate for your feedback session is as important as the evaluation itself.

Step 3: Evaluate each factor or goal and then write out a narrative statement summarizing that evaluation. The performance evaluation form is designed so that the evaluation can be done on page one and the narrative statement summarizing that evaluation can be written on page two. For a first time a performance evaluation is implemented, for each factor or goal, use the categories of Excellent, Good, Marginal, Unsatisfactory, or Too Early to Rate. The category of Outstanding should not be added to the evaluation form until after the performance evaluation process has been in place for one or two years in order for the pastor and other supervisors not experienced with administering performance evaluations to gain experience with the process.

Step 4: Review how you rated each performance factor or goal and the contents of each performance narrative before you determine the overall rating. Don't assign an overall rating based solely on the total number of marks (x) in a rating category, since certain factors should carry greater weight than others. For example, "quality of work" should be given greater weight than "personal appearance." It is important to remember that any performance evaluation has a degree of subjectivity; the process explained here is designed to enhance the evaluator's objectivity.

Step 5: An alternative strategy you can employ at a midyear evaluation is to have the subordinate prepare a self-evaluation prior to your conference. The pastor or supervisor would also prepare an evaluation before meeting with the employee. When using this method, allow the subordinate to present her or his evaluation first. After the subordinate finished, you (the supervisor) would then present your evaluation.

Step 6: Since there is always a great deal of anxiety at the time of a subordinate's evaluation, especially the first, obtain the subordinate's undivided attention by informing her or him of the overall rating at the beginning of the evaluation if the rating is "Good," "Excellent," or (eventually) "Outstanding." If, however, the overall rating is "Marginal" or "Unsatisfactory," it is more effective to evaluate each factor or goal as you progress through the evaluation form. Such a strategy will enable you to coach the subordinate as to how he or she can improve each "Marginal" or "Unsatisfactory" performance factor or goal. Obviously, you want to offer praise to your subordinate for "Excellent," "Good," and "Outstanding" ratings. It is critical that you be candid and accurate when administering a performance evaluation. As a means of ensuring accuracy when conveying facts or information about job performance, it is good practice to maintain a file folder for each subordinate. When you observe an action or inaction that affects a subordinate's job performance either positively or negatively, write a brief note, date it, and drop it into their file. Later, when you begin preparing performance evaluations, you will have accurate information on hand to draw upon. [Also note what you said to the subordinate on that occasion!]

Step 7: For job performance to improve, the evaluation must be a two-way dialogue. Avoid being defensive; permit a subordinate to disagree with your evaluation of a performance factor or goal; be flexible. Changing one or two ratings of a factor or goal should not change the overall rating, however. Again, the objective of the evaluation process is to improve the subordinate's job performance. The result is a "win-win" situation!
